

— DRILL TEAM —

ONE OF OUR FAVORITE PEDIATRIC DENTISTS HAS BIG NEWS!

BY TRACY BROWN

PHOTOGRAPHY BY MATT DRUIN

Did you know that good dental hygiene starts even before your little one gets their first tooth? Choosing a pediatric dentist that you trust is a really big deal. The right decision can set your child up for a lifetime of healthy behavior. And not to brag, but we just so happen to think that we've found the best one around in Dr. Mike (oh yes, no fancy titles here!) at Rossitch Pediatric Dentistry in Marietta. The even better news? After 10 years of amazing service, he's decided to expand the practice and bring onboard a new dentist who's just as cool as he is.

For Dr. Mike and his team, the timing is just right. "I've been lucky that my practice has grown and that I've gotten to a point where we're booked far out in advance," says Dr. Mike, who notes that being booked up means it's hard to see emergency patients or to get new patients in. "It's an exciting time for the practice to be able to offer more options to our patients."

HOME SWEET HOME

"As soon as I talked to Dr. Sarah, I instantly knew she would be a great fit," says Dr. Mike. The two share the same practice philosophy and want the same level of service for their patients. Dr. Sarah Boyles recently finished her residency program at the University of Kentucky and was looking for a practice here in Cobb County. Hailing from Cartersville and married to a Cobb County boy, she always knew she would come back home to serve the people whom she considers family. "It's exciting to have someone who has roots in this area and wants to invest wholly in this community," says Dr. Mike.

Dr. Sarah is also Mom to an adorable 1-year-old, which lends a sense of new energy –and empathy – to her patients. "My kids are 14, 12 and 9," says Dr. Mike, "I'm happy we have someone in the practice who can bring a common perspective to new moms."

A BUILT-IN SECOND OPINION

Having another person to bounce ideas off of is another reason Dr. Mike is over the moon about the change. "It's nice to have another opinion and a different point of reference," he says. Having both a male and female dentist also allows patients to choose the provider they relate to the most.

With the addition of Dr. Sarah, the practice hopes to open its doors five days a week instead of four. And after all is said and done, Dr. Mike also hopes to spend a little more time with his wife and boys. So, welcome back home, Dr. Sarah! We're all excited to meet you.

SOURCE | Rossitch Pediatric Dentistry. Near the West Cobb Avenue, 3698 Largent Way, Ste. 201, Marietta. 770-420-6565. rossitchpediatricdentistry.com

